Assessment - Accessibility - Adaptations

Just as every child is unique, each solution is unique. Our individualized approach will facilitate curriculum access and functional independence in the classroom setting for even the most complex students.

Client-Centered Approach

Cotting Consulting offers a client-centered approach to meet the technology needs of individuals within classroom settings. In conjunction with educational team members, our services are designed to support students using a range of tools from simple to complex, related to:

- Augmentative and Alternative Communication
- Assistive Technology
- Curriculum modification
- Positioning and access
- Organization and study
- Literacy and math

Staff-Focused Solutions

Our Consultants can:

- Teach educational teams strategies and best practices for technology integration and implementation
- Increase familiarization and comfort with higher technology options
- Provide content-based professional development
- Assist with curriculum access, modifications and alternative assessments

Student-Focused Solutions

Our Consultants can:

- Conduct evaluations for Augmentative and Alternative Communication and/or Assistive Technology
- Provide teaching and therapeutic interventions
- Explore funding sources
- Develop a plan for implementation
- Implement tools and strategies
- Monitor student progress

Consulting Staff

We match Cotting Consultants to the unique needs of each student, family and educational team. We draw from a team of speech-language pathologists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, educational technology specialists and special educators. Our fully licensed and certified staff members include Assistive Technology Practitioners and Neurodevelopmental Treatment Professionals.
